SKATE RACING HAS DECLINED

Once Famous Sport in America Is Hardly Heard of Now.

Ice skating isn't what it used to be in this country. A few years ago the land was filled with men who were recognized as the greatest speed mer-chants in the world on the blades of steel, but today, barring a few in the north and some of the rink skaters in the east, the crop is thin.

We have no more Johnny Johnsons Donoghues, Neilsons and Carlsons which probably accounts for the fact that the wonderful 100-mile record of Joe Donoghue of Newburgh, N. Y. still stands.

Joe Donoghue was in his day with out a peer on the ice. Man after man tried to lower his colors, but failed While following the sport he was re-cognized as be greatest skate: the world ever saw. Donoghue's greatest feat was his 100-mile performance at Stamford, Conn., Jan. 23, 1896, when he skated 100 miles for fun. Opposed to him that day were A. S. Franklin of Norway and John Ennis of Stamford. The race was announced far in advance as the 100-mile championship of America, but entries were not numer ous enough to attract notice. Few The course was oval, two laps to the mile, and after the first few laps Donoghue was never headed.

the completion of the half distance Donoghue turned to the crowd and said, "This is a cinch." At this time he led Franklin by six and one-half miles, and Ennis by seven miles.

While on his ninety-second mile Donoghue was tripped by a boy, who, miscalculating his speed, tried to cross the track ahead of him. The fall injured the skater's knee, but after traveling three miles at reduced speed he worked up to his former pace, which he main tained to the end, finishing in 7 hours | Vancouver ... 11 minutes and 381/2 seconds. At this time Franklin had covered ninety and ne-third miles, and Ennis eighty-five.
